Even though her house is crammed full of books (her dad's a bibliophile), she's having trouble figuring out some very big questions, like why her dad seems to care more about books than her, why her best friend's divorced mom is obsessed with making confeciones (hollowed eggshells filled with colorful confetti), and, most of all, why her mom died last year. Like colors in confeciones, Lina's life is a rainbow of people, interests, and unexpected changes. In her first novel for young readers, Diane Lopez creates a clever and honest story about a young Latina girl navigating growing pains in her South Texan city.

That Book Woman

- Heather Henson 2011-07-26

An exceptionally illustrated parable to everyone who struggles to learn how to read, and to everyone who won't give up on them. Cal is not the reader's type. Living way high up in the Appalachian Mountains, he'd rather help Pap plow or go out after wandering sheep than try some book learning. Nope. Cal does not want to sit stoney-still reading some chicken scratch. But that Book Woman keeps coming just the same. She comes in the rain. She comes in the snow. She comes right up the side of the mountain, and Cal knows that's not easy riding. And all just to lend his sister some books. Why, that woman must be plain foolish—or is she braver than he ever thought? That Book Woman is a rare and moving tale that honors a special part of American history—the Pack Horse Librarians, who helped untold numbers of children see the stories amid the chicken scratch, and thus made them into lifetime readers.

As a boy, he was shy and teased at school. His family starved in the fields for barely enough money to survive. Cesar knew things had to change, and he thought that—maybe—he could help change them. A Museum of Their Own

- Wilhelmina Cole Holladay 2008

"Until quite recently, the work of great women artists was ignored, forgotten, or denied; they were largely left out of museums and histories of art. Along came Wilhelmina Cole Holladay, who boldly rectified this oversight in 1981, by founding a museum that was initially housed in her residence, where don't-let-tours of the collection were offered. "This thrilling account of the birth and early years of NMWA provides a lively, anecdotal, behind-the-scenes glimpse of the efforts of the countless dedicated individuals who have shared Mrs. Holladay's vision and, under her leadership, helped to expand the permanent collection, renovate the Museum, and fund a robust endowment. Today, NMWA boasts a sizable membership among the ten largest museum memberships in the world; including twenty-nine active committees in states across the nation and in eight countries. Among the major exhibitions presented at the Museum have been retrospectives of important women artists - Lavinia Fontana, Berthe Morisot, Camille Claudel, Lilia Caleb Perry, and Carrie Mae Weems. "Illustrating this captivating memoir are nearly 200 pictures, most in full color, including artworks, archival photographs, and candid images of the landmark events that led to the Museum's impressive growth. An additional feature is a color portfolio of "Selected Gifts and Promised Gifts of Wallace and Wilhelmina Holladay to the Museum." "The remarkable story of NMWA, told through the eyes of its founder, is a priceless legacy for women today and for future generations." - Wilhelmina Cole Holladay, the founder and chair of the board of the National Museum of Women in the Arts- BOOK JACKET.
